ARICHA
since 1942

Aricha, established in 1942, is a leading reliable supplier to Japanese, European and Canadian importers with a wide range of Organic spices and other foods.

Aricha has a long history and has close ties with grass-root level farmers. We have the opportunity to offer products combine impeccable quality and traceability.

Our business is built with transparency. With this in mind, we regularly invite our customers to meet our producers, so that they can better understand and appreciate the origin of the spices they buy and see the progress we make.

Our goal is to offer only the finest organic spices.

Aricha, an Indian manufacturer-exporter based in Kolkata, has been in existence for four generations and since 1999 has dedicated itself to organic farming and to support Indian producers. This has allowed us to show the local farmers our vision of sustainable, environment-friendly organic farming, creating a bond with a profoundly ecologically-minded community.

What does Organic Farming mean?

Everybody is talking about organic farming, but what exactly does it mean ? In the definition given by the "Agence Bio", organic farming is a range of farming practices which respects the balance of the ecosystem and farmers' independence.

Since 1999, Aricha has been locating potential production zones that have not yet been farmed by conventional farmers.

Crop production in remote regions is handled by the producers who are mindful of sustainable soil development and have a deep respect for their food crops.

These rural zones with very low population density are loving the producers take advantage of the pure air, water. Regular training and improved communication systems are giving the farmers an incentive to keep an eye on environmental dangers (chemical products, pesticides). Let us work hand in hand, defending them to maintain the rich fertility of our soil.

The advantages - An ethical and responsible approach

The guarantee of organic farming is a key part of our quality control procedures which focuses on the ecological consequences of our crops on the people and the environment.

Our organic spices are produced by a network of farmers, with whom we have developed historical and contractual relationships, overseen by Quality Inspectors, who ensure that they work within the "organic farming" framework. Higher price premiums encourage the farmers to retain organic systems and directly contribute to preservation and growth of healthy soil, healthy food and healthy life.

Every single batch is tested and analyzed at the laboratory to ensure compliance with the most stringent food regulatory bodies of Japan, Europe and other leading markets.
